

Chat shorthand/acronyms/abbreviations

Sometimes called leet-speak

OK moms and dads, you need to know some of these, especially the "Top 40 - Parents Must Know" list, so you are not k13w13$$ (clueless) when reviewing your kid's coded language used for instant and text messaging, chat and emails. You will find the larger, "Consolidated" list following the "Top 40". Many of the more important abbreviations are in a larger font and or highlighted. A few would be considered vulgar (but they are not spelled out).

Consider printing, both, the "Top 40" list and the "Consolidated" list and keep them handy for reviewing your kid's coded language used for instant and text messaging, chat, and emails.

If any of the "Top 40" show up in your kids chat sessions, emails, etc., immediately find out what is going on! Don't jump to conclusions, but find out.
